

Chuck Wicks Short Bio & Bullet Points

Though he took the country format by storm in 2008 with his Top 5 debut single, “Stealing Cinderella,” and his Top 15 follow-up hit, “All I Ever Wanted” (and earned a whole new audience of fans as a celebrity contestant on the ABC mega-hit Dancing with the Stars), it hasn’t all come easy. Wicks spent several years paying his dues by parking cars and writing songs. He developed his craft, apprenticing with some of the top songwriters on Music Row. That hard work paid off as he has continued to tour relentlessly including the entire 2008 Brad Paisley Tour.

Chuck has just finished up a new project to be released this summer, which includes his song “Hold That Thought.” The video for “Hold That Thought” spent 8 weeks in the Top 10 on GAC’s Top 20 Countdown, including 2 weeks at #2.

Wicks current single “Old School” is allowing him to show another side to not only his songwriting but his personality. All this was recently highlighted in a People Magazine spread where we was photographed playing the part of the hopeless romantic, the cowboy and the nerd. His friends seem to bust his chops about consistently being voted to all the sexiest bachelor lists, but as Chuck says, “It sure makes my mom proud.”
