

JAMEY JOHNSON

that lonesome song

"Best Of 2008"

2008 Grammy nominations:

- *Best Country Album – That Lonesome Song
- *Best Male Country Vocal Performance – "In Color" - Jamey Johnson
- *Best Country Song – "In Color" - writers Jamey Johnson, Lee Thomas Miller & James Otto

Rolling Stone

BEST OF 2008-ALBUMS OF THE YEAR – There's a new Man in Black in Nashville – an ex-Marine with a talent for penning rugged, gothic honky-tonk odes to waking up with whiskey eyes and ashtray breath. He's outlaw country's next big hope.

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

Jamey Johnson steps up to a level of songwriting that's so frank, so pinpoint exact in its life specifics (That Southern Baptist parking lot was where I'd go to smoke my pot)...the album's total impact recalls that of the 1970 LP that marked the seemingly sudden emergence of Kris Kristofferson.

HOUSTON CHRONICLE

YEAR-END BEST - CAN'T GET ENOUGH OF THESE CDS – #1 - That Lonesome Song. This may be the best rough-hewn album to come out of Nashville since Guitar Town.

StarTribune

THE YEAR IN MUSIC: OUR FAVORITE ALBUMS – Jamey Johnson, That Lonesome Song...a louder-than-Waylon voice reflects on divorce, drugs and drinking in the year's most intriguing country album.

iTunes

- BEST ALBUMS OF 2008 - That Lonesome Song #7 (all genres)
- THE BEST COUNTRY ALBUMS OF 2008 #1 That Lonesome Song
- OVERALL BEST SONGS OF 2008 #8 "In Color" (all genres)
- BEST COUNTRY SONGS OF 2008 #1 "In Color"

OUR CRITIC'S PICKS OF 2008 – Few country writers dare match his brutal honesty turned inward.

The New York Times

The voice is deep, the songs are sturdy and the bleakness is timeless.

The Washington Post

TOP 10 BEST OF 2008: Country traditionalist Jamey Johnson is a good ol' boy in a bad, bad way on That Lonesome Song, a brilliant bummer of an album.

The Dallas Morning News

YEAR IN REVIEW – 2008 Music – Outlaw country ain't dead. In fact, in Mr. Johnson's hands, it's raw, emotional and world-weary. "High Cost of Living" and "In Color" are sobering masterpieces.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution

Top 50 of 2008: My favorite country CD of the year.

Billboard

BEST OF 2008 – That Lonesome Song - More Waylon and Willie than Rascal Flatts and Carrie Underwood—a testament to raw and real.

TOP 25 ALBUMS OF 2008 – That Lonesome Song

Top Albums of 2008 – That Lonesome Song

The Philadelphia Inquirer

Best Albums of 2008 – Jamey Johnson That Lonesome Song. Drinking, drugging, divorce: The Alabama-born-honky-tonker has lived it all, and he puts those staples of country inspiration to good.

Paste FAVORITE ALBUMS OF 2008... the best country record released in 2008. Hands down.

Jamey Johnson – It's not just the outlaw stance that lifts his work; it's the blue-collar authenticity of a man writing his truths with a balance of nerve and sensitivity.
