

ELLE

January 2009

ELLE INTELLIGENCE MUSIC

BRIT YOUNG THINGS

Don't mistake Late of the Pier for another pretty discofied quartet. On Fantasy Black Channel, they're tweaking on their own enthusiasm and that storied British eccentricity, jamming gleefully anarchic prog-rock circuits with scorching guitar licks. Put them in the same category as Hot Chip and Clinic—bands that the post-punk greats might actually claim as competitors rather than pale imitations.