

PENN JILLETTE
Biography

Penn Jillette has had an email address since 1984. (He started as Penn@MIT.edu, but now he has his own domain just like you.)

He's been on-line every day since those days when getting on-line at a hotel meant wire strippers and alligator clips. Penn is not a hacker or a computer scientist, he's a comedian and a magician by trade, but he's probably browsing right now.

Those who have seen him on "Politically Incorrect" know that Penn is very opinionated and loves to talk about technology and the Web.

Lately he's been demonstrating why he's glad he learned fire eating from a fellow piece of carnny trash and not from a web page. How to process the vast amount of information in our on-line lives is important to everyone, but in the world of carnny, the difference between information and truth can be the difference between a 1st and a 3rd degree burn.